Submission Agreement for DEMOCRACY IN CRISIS . . . DEMOCRACY IN PERIL?

Note: this text is offered as a suggested model, not as legal advice.

By checking the box below, I grant DEMOCRACY IN CRISIS . . . DEMOCRACY IN PERIL? on behalf of University of South Florida the non-exclusive right to distribute my submission ("the Work") over the Internet and make it part of the Scholar Commons.

I warrant as follows:

1. that I have the full power and authority to make this agreement;
2. that the Work does not infringe any copyright, nor violate any proprietary rights, nor contain any libelous matter, nor invade the privacy of any person or third party;
3. that the Work has not been published elsewhere with the same content or in the same format; and
4. that no right in the Work has in any way been sold, mortgaged, or otherwise disposed of, and that the Work is free from all liens and claims.

I understand that once a peer-reviewed Work is deposited in the repository, it may not be removed.

NOTE: It is suggested that you print this page for your records.

Also, in the process of submitting your abstract, you will be asked to select a Creative Commons License from several options.

What the Creative Commons licenses do

The Creative Commons copyright licenses and tools forge a balance inside the traditional “all rights reserved” setting that copyright law creates. Our tools give everyone from individual creators to large companies and institutions a simple, standardized way to grant copyright permissions to their creative work. The combination of our tools and our users is a vast and growing digital commons, a pool of content that can be copied, distributed, edited, remixed, and built upon, all within the boundaries of copyright law.
