

The International Social Theory Consortium will be holding its Second Annual Conference at the University of Sussex (5-8 July, 2001).

The purpose of the Consortium and its annual conference is provide a forum for the international social theory community. Thus we have invited papers that not only address the differences between European, North American and other perspectives on social theory, but encompass the diverse subject matter, theoretical approaches and methodological issues that characterize social theory.

Panels will include:

- Social Spaces and Modalities of Social Theory
- Social Theory as Resistance
- Social Theory and Discourse
- Social Theory and Responsibility
- Values in Social Theory
- Passion and Social Theory
- Multiple Modernities
- Realism
- Feminist Theory
- Democracy and Governance
- Culture and Identity

Panels on specific social theorists include:

- Zygmunt Bauman
- Deleuze and Guattari
